FUNDRAISING NEWS

Dear Parents, carers, students and community friends,

FATHER'S DAY BREAKFAST

Last Friday, CLG held our second ever Father's Day breakfast. Over 200 fathers, grandfathers, students and even some mothers attended the event. It was a busy time for the wonderful mothers and carers who work tirelessly as members of the fundraising committee with the buying, preparation, setup, cooking and serving. It was an early start for many. This year we had the local Rotary Club involved with the cooking and they were a great help. I would also like to thank the 12 or so staff members who also came out early to help with the serving. We hope those who attended enjoyed the breakfast and paper plane competition. The weather turned a little wet, however we made the most of it. Congratulations also to the raffle winners. We feel the organisation was an improvement on last year and most of the lines moved quickly. If you have any feedback about the breakfast please email me at:

STUDENT LED CONFERENCES

Next week our class teachers are hosting our Student Led Conferences. Please make a time via the school interviews website to come and explore your child's learning. A note went home early this week and is on the school blog with all the information and booking details.

MINDSETS

What might be holding some children back from improving their learning? We can all learn a lot from watching, listening to and reading some of Carol Dweck's research about mindsets. Through her 30 years of research she has found that people have either a 'fixed' mindset or a 'growth' mindset. People with a 'fixed' mindset believe that:

- making mistakes means that they lack ability;
- they tend not to work hard as they feel this shows they have limited ability;
- they don't need to fix mistakes if they make them.

Whilst people with a 'growth' mindset: take on challenges, work hard and confront their deficiencies and correct them.

So what can parents and teachers do to foster 'growth' mindsets? The answer starts in how we praise children. If we praise them for their intelligence [how smart they are] we will foster a 'fixed' mindset, but if we praise them for their effort and strategies we will encourage a 'growth' mindset.

Everyone is capable of learning and improving, and intelligence [smartness] is not set. What kind of a mindset does your child have? Want to know more about this? Go to:

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN ROOM 23?

History in the Making - Room 23

The year ones from Readeville have been investigating how things have changed over time for history. We loved our excursion to Uleybury School Museum. The children wrote with ink wells and slates, played old-fashioned games and had their hands inspected to make sure they were clean before school.

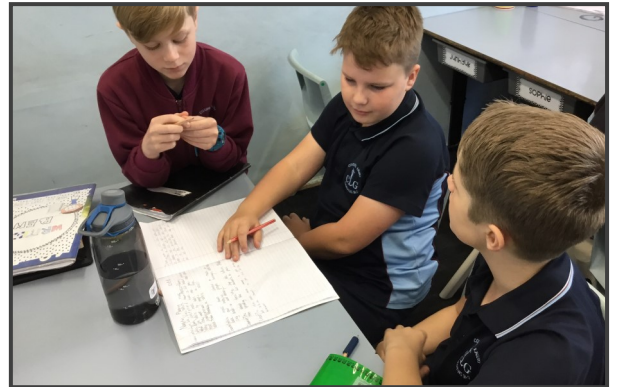

Year 5/6 – Room 8 & 9

Narrative Writing and Publishing Party

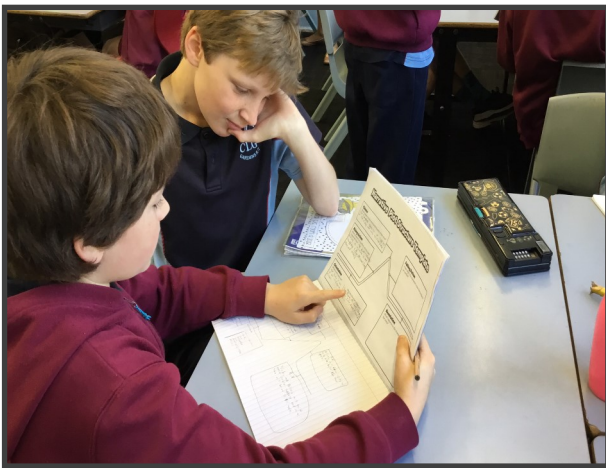

The Writing Process

We started with brainstorming ideas for our stories and then once we found our golden idea we started planning our storyline. After we wrote our draft Ms Craig and Ms Maduro helped us edit our stories and we started typing. After we drafted our stories a few times we made our front and back covers. It was time to put our stories together, we bound them and began our Publishing Party. Bianca

I found the drafting hard because it was challenging to think of a good plot twist for my story. I also found revising hard because in my draft I had put in a lot of detail. I overcame this problem by conferencing with Ms Craig. Flynn

I changed the word “said” into lots of different words so it would be more interesting. I tried to use a sizzling start so it would make the readers want to read it more. I tried to use as much dialogue as I needed so the reader would like to read it more. Sam L

The main challenge I faced was coming up with an interesting topic to write my story about. I overcame this challenge by thinking about my past and making it more exciting by adding in little details that actually never happened. Another of my challenges were that my story was getting too long because I was dragging on. I overcame this by cutting out parts that I didn't need. Jade

I'm extremely proud of how many words I wrote down. I am also very proud of all the feedback I got from my peers and that I was surprised at how many errors I made - there weren't that many, I thought there would have been more. I am also proud of how many pages I wrote. I loved how my friends talked to me about how to fix my story and I was proud of how much better my story got because of them! Sophie

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN ROOMS 8 & 9 ? Cont....

Our Publishing Party was amazing! It was organized by Ms Craig and Ms Maduro. There was a pirate themed photo booth and all of our books were on stands. There was food, cupcakes and even a red carpet! Keira

I think the start was hard because I never know how to transition to the topic and how to keep the reader reading and keep them still interested. It was also hard to make sure that the beginning was relevant. Introducing the characters was also challenging to transition between different characters. Tyler V

I am most proud of the parts of my story where I didn't feel comfortable but I still did it and then my story got better and better. I was also proud of the part where I left it on a cliffhanger because I don't really do that, I usually make it a happy ending.

Thomas R

I was most proud when my parents read it and said it was very funny and nerve racking. In the story I said a lot of stuff that related to our family! Will V

I am most proud of all of the nice comments that people left after reading my book. Also the feeling of completing a project that we did for two weeks—if feels good to be an author.

Charlie

FUNDRAISING NEWS

To all the male role models out there we hope you had a great day being spoilt, and you enjoyed the gifts carefully selected for you from our stall. I'm sure many "Dad Jokes" were told.

Thankyou to all those who came out to our breakfast on Friday morning. Another year sold out! It was great to see so many turn out for this event and enjoy breakfast with their kids. The rain held off for the first half of the morning before we moved into the hall for the paper plane competition. First we had the student challenge won by student, James H, The adult challenge was won by dad, Joshua Crowley.

A huge shout out to the staff of CLG, you provided us with great support getting up at the crack of dawn to help with the serving, Mitcham Rotary for cooking the BBQ, and to our awesome fundraising crew who were up bright and early, setting up, cooking, serving and cleaning.

Our school community values everything we do to help provide additional resources for the school. If you would like to join our dynamic team, whether it is for one event or more, or become the next leader please email expression of interest to clgpsfundraising@gmail.com.au
